2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation

The Company's financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("US GAAP").

The following is a summary of the significant accounting policies followed by the Company:

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with US GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from these estimates. The Company has not utilized any significant estimates in the preparation of the financial statements.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

ASC Topic 460, "Guarantees" requires the disclosure of representations and warranties which the Company enters into which may provide general indemnifications to others. The Company in its normal course of business may enter into other legal contracts that contain a variety of these representations and warranties that provide general indemnifications. The Company's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown, as this would involve future claims that may be against the Company that have not yet occurred. However, based on its experience, the Company expects the risk of loss to be remote.

Cash and Restricted Cash

Cash consists of cash in banks, primarily held at one financial institution and at times may exceed federally insured limits. It is the opinion of management that the solvency of this financial institution is not a concern at this time. Cash is an unrestricted, allowable asset for net capital purposes.

Restricted cash represents cash pledged as collateral against a revolving credit line taken out by MCA LP in the amount of $2.5 million as of December 31, 2019.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable are stated at unpaid balances, less any reserves. Interest on long-term receivables is recognized over the term of the receivable and is calculated using the simple-interest method on principal amounts outstanding. Some long-term receivables carry interest rates on the outstanding unpaid balance that approximate interest rates for similar term receivables.

The Company considers a receivable uncollectible when, based on current information or factors, it is probable that the Company will not collect the receivable balance and related interest payments according to the receivable agreement. Accounts either have an allowance established or are written off when management believes that the collection, after considering current economic conditions, business conditions and collection efforts, of the receivables and related interest is doubtful.

The Company analyzes specific accounts receivable, client concentrations, client credit worthiness, current economic trends and changes in its customer's payment terms when evaluating the adequacy of doubtful accounts. At December 31, 2019, the MCA LP has determined that an accumulated reserve of $1,312,750 is required to state accounts receivable at their net realizable value.

Certain accounts receivable balances are pledged as collateral against a revolving credit line taken out by MCA LP and are outstanding at December 31, 2019.

Fixed Assets

Fixed assets consist of furniture and computer hardware, which are stated at cost. Fixed assets are depreciated using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of assets, which range from five to seven years. The Company's management reviews fixed assets for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate the carrying amount may not be recoverable. If impairment is identified, the asset is written down to fair value. As of December 31, 2019, no fixed assets have been deemed impaired.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

The carrying value of short-term financial instruments, namely accounts receivable, approximates the fair value of these instruments. Fair value is defined herein as the price that would be received from selling an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The Company values its financial instruments using hierarchy of fair value that maximizes the use of observable inputs and minimizes the use of unobservable inputs when measuring fair value.

The fair value hierarchy can be summarized as follows:

- Level - 1 Valuations based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Company has the ability to access. Since valuations are based on quoted prices that are readily and regularly available in an active market, valuation of these products does not entail significant degree of judgment.
- Level - 2 Valuations based on quoted prices in markets that are not active or for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly or indirectly.
- Level - 3 Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and significant to the overall fair value measurement.

Changes in fair value are recognized in earnings each period for financial instruments that are carried at fair value.

Income Taxes

The Company is a single-member limited liability company that is treated as a "disregarded entity" for federal and state income tax purposes to the extent permitted by law. Therefore, the Company makes no provision for federal or state income taxes. However, the Company is subject to the New York City Unincorporated Business Tax ("NYC UBT"). Income taxes are accounted for using the liability method of accounting. Under this method, deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the expected future tax consequences of differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities and their respective tax basis, using currently enacted tax rates. The effect on deferred assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period when the change is enacted.

The Company also applies ASC Topic 740-10 "Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes" which sets out a framework for management to use to determine the appropriate level of tax reserves to maintain for uncertain tax positions. This interpretation uses a two step approach wherein a tax benefit is recognized if a position is more likely than not to be sustained, and the amount of benefit is then measured on a probabilistic approach, as defined in the guidance. The guidance also sets out disclosure requirements to enhance transparency of an entity's tax guidance reserves. As of December 31, 2019, management of the Company has determined that there are no uncertain tax positions that need to be recorded.

Tax laws are complex and subject to different interpretations by the taxpayer and respective governmental taxing authorities. Significant judgment is required in determining tax expense and in evaluating tax positions, including evaluating uncertainties under US GAAP. The Company reviews its tax positions and adjusts its tax balances as new information becomes available. The federal, New York State and New York City tax returns of MCA LP, the Company's parent, are open to audit for the year ended December 31, 2016, and later. The Company is not currently under examination by any tax authority, nor are there any pending examinations.

Intercompany Balances with Affiliates

Receivables from and payables to affiliated companies are offset and the net amount receivable from and/or due to each affiliate is reported in the statement of financial condition as there is a legally enforceable right to set off the recognized amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or realize the asset and settle the liability simultaneously. The balance relates to advisory fee expenses, expenses paid by MCA LP and shared with Mercury Capital and reimbursable expenses that are transferred back to affiliates.

During December 2019, Mercury Capital Advisors, LLP, the UK broker dealer, was the victim of a cyber breach that resulted in a loss of £207,164. The loss was uncovered during January 2020 and reported to all regulatory bodies in the US and UK. The Company filed a claim with its insurance carrier via its Fidelity bond which is currently under review. As a result of the breach, the Company has implemented verbal verification of all invoices before payment, multi-factor authentication and an external e-mail banner on all incoming e-mails from outside sources.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

Leases

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-02, "Leases" (Topic 842), that requires lessees to recognize a right-of-use asset and a lease liability on the balance sheet for all leases with the exception of short-term leases. For lessees, leases will continue to be classified as either operating or finance leases in the income statement. Lessor accounting is similar to the current model but updated to align with certain changes to the lessee model. Lessors will continue to classify leases as operating, direct financing or sales-type leases. The new standard must be adopted using a modified retrospective transition and requires application of the new guidance at the beginning of the earliest comparative period presented. The guidance is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2020. Early adoption is permitted. The Company is evaluating the impact of this new pronouncement on its financial statements and related disclosures, because MCA LP is the signer of the leases.

Current Expected Credit Loss ("CECL")

In June 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-13, "Financial Instruments — Credit Losses (Topic 326): Measurement of Credit Losses on Financial Instruments", which amends the FASB's guidance on the impairment of financial instruments. This adds to United States generally accepted accounting principles ("U.S. GAAP") an impairment model (known as the CECL model) that is based on expected losses rather than incurred losses. Under the new guidance, an entity recognizes as an allowance its estimate of lifetime expected credit losses, which the FASB believes will result in more timely recognition of such losses. The ASU is also intended to reduce the complexity of U.S. GAAP by decreasing the number of credit impairment models that entities use to account for debt instruments. Further, the ASU makes targeted changes to the impairment model for available-for-sale debt securities. The new CECL standard is effective for annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2019, and interim periods therein. The Company is currently evaluating the effect of adopting the new standard and expects that the impact to the Company's financial statements will be minimal.

4. Related Party Transactions

On November 9, 2010, and amended on May 29, 2013, the Company and MCA LP entered into an Administrative Services and Expense Sharing Agreement (the "Expense Sharing Agreement"). In accordance with the Expense Sharing Agreement, the Company shall, on a monthly basis, reimburse MCA LP for salaries and related expenses of registered investment personnel as well as a proportional share of certain administrative and overhead costs paid on behalf of the Company.

6. Financial Instruments and Fair Market Valuation

At December 31, 2019, all of the Company's financial instruments were carried at historical cost. The Company estimates that the carrying value of all financial instruments, other than long-term accounts receivable described below, approximates the fair value.

The fair value of long term accounts receivable is determined using a discounted cash flow model. This model primarily uses observable and unobservable inputs such as a discount rate based upon similar (public) instruments, taking into account, among other factors, the credit quality and industry sector of the issuer and the reduced liquidity associated with these private instruments. The Company's financial instruments are considered to be Level 2 instruments within the fair value hierarchy.

The Company estimates that the fair value of long-term accounts receivable at December 31, 2019, is $1,709,815 less than the amount at which they are carried on the statement of financial condition. In order to calculate the fair value, the Company compared the net present value of future cash flows related to long-term receivables to the amount at which these receivables are carried on the statement of financial condition. The discount rate used in this net present value calculation consisted of the three-year Treasury rate plus the US corporate BBB effective yield rate, the sum of which was 4.81%.

7. Net Capital Requirements

As a registered broker-dealer, the Company is subject to the SEC Uniform Net Capital Rule ("Rule 15c3-1") of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital. Under Rule 15c3-1, the Company is required to maintain minimum Net Capital equal to the greater of $5,000 or 6 2/3% of aggregate indebtedness. At December 31, 2019, the Company had net capital of $64,858, which was $51,885 above its required Net Capital of $12,973. The percentage of aggregate indebtedness to net capital was 300%.

The Company claims exemption from the provisions of Rule 15c3-3 under the Securities Act of 1934, in that the Company's activities are limited to those set forth in the conditions from exemption appearing in paragraph (k)(2)(i) of the Rule.

Periodically throughout the year, the Company made distributions out of member's equity to the member. These distributions are preapproved by the Company's Management Committee and are always contingent on having adequate excess net capital. Furthermore, these distributions are made within regulatory guidelines and requirements, and the SEC and FINRA are notified as required.

8. Subsequent Events

Management evaluated subsequent events as of February 27, 2020, the date of which these financial statements were available to be issued. Management has notified the New York office's landlord its intent to exercise their lease renewal option. Management is waiting to receive the terms and conditions of the lease renewal.
